Manager's commentary

Your managers had a busy September, meeting over half of the companies held in the portfolio. This was an effective antidote to watching markets plunge under the dual influence of poor numbers from the United States and the threat of war in the Middle East. Weak stock prices notwithstanding, most of our invested companies report steady growth in earnings. There were especially bullish forecasts from meat processor People's Food and golf club maker SinoGolf, and we have raised our earnings estimate for both. Our largest holding, TCL, increased its holding in its fast-growing cellular handset subsidiary and announced the purchase of Schneider in Germany as a means of boosting TV sales in Europe under a local brand name. Interim profits at the cap maker Mainland Headwear were a little disappointing, but this was largely due to the temporary cost of meeting the logistical requirements of new clients Nike and Timberland. Due to technical difficulties in bringing its new plant into operation, revenue growth at the anti-hepatitis drug maker Lifetech will be below forecast. But sales in the second half of the year are still expected to be four times those in the first.

Your managers visited the municipality of Chongqing (with population of a mere 30 million) in September. When your manager visited it in 1983 it was a grimy, foggy industrial city, with old houses tumbling down the hill slopes into the murky waters of the Yangtse and Jialing Rivers. Its only redeeming feature was the excellent spicy food. On my last visit in 1996, little had changed. This time, the city centre has been transformed, with high rise buildings and bridges and elevated motorways swooping around the city. After the closing of the Yangtse dam next year, water levels will rise so as to allow bigger vessels to sail right up to this inland port over 2,000 miles from the sea. It is not only Beijing and Shanghai that have been transformed by steady economic growth of over 7%.

As with hardware, so it is with software. A visit to the CSRC (China's SEC) indicated progress is being made in corporate governance; by June of next year one third of all board directors must be independent. There were also the clearest signs yet of an imminent opening of the US$500 billion domestic A-share market to foreign investors.

Investment strategy

Your fund is 96.2% invested with holdings in 59 companies. Of the fund 8.0% is invested in unlisted securities.

During September we added to holdings in dotcom companies. Sina, Sohu and Netease are all enjoying good sales growth from the rapid expansion of messaging services to cellular phones (revenues are shared with the operators China Mobile and Unicom). We added to two Taiwan-listed China plays, the digital camera components maker, Ability, and Asia's largest casting company, China Metal. On the sell side, we have realised losses in China Overseas, Geomaxima and Asia Satellite to improve the Fund's tax efficiency ahead of the financial year-end.

Small, private sector companies listed in Hong Kong have had a difficult summer. The de-listing debacle in July, when the Hong Kong Exchange proposed de-listing all stocks with a price of under 50 cents, caused the prices of many small stocks to plunge. A new, more sensible proposal is expected in October and should clear the air. Recently the swirl of rumours surrounding Yang Bin, chairman of the suspiciously profitable horticultural company Euro Asia and apparent ruler of a new North Korean special economic zone, has dealt a further blow to confidence. Despite the entrepreneurial risk involved in investing in small, private sector companies, your managers believe that this is still better than the alternative -investment in poorly managed, debt-encumbered state-owned enterprises. Your Fund intends to take advantage of the current bargain prices to add to positions in the best private-sector companies.

No new direct investments were closed in September. The Direct Investment Manager has been reviewing potential investments which are in the sectors of hypermarket chains, pharmaceutical manufacturing and consumer electronics parts and accessories manufacturing.

Objective

The investment objective of the Fund is to achieve long term capital appreciation through investment in companies and other entities with significant assets, investments, production activities, trading or other business interests in China or which derive a significant part of their revenue from China.

The Board of Directors of the Fund has adopted an operating policy of the Fund, effective June 30, 2001, that the Fund will invest at least 80% of its assets in China companies. For this purpose, "China companies" are (i) companies for which the principal securities trading market is in China; (ii) companies for which the principal securities trading market is outside of China or in companies organised outside of China, that in both cases derive at least 50% of their revenues from goods or services sold or produced, or have a least 50% of their assets in China; and (iii) companies organized in China. Under the new policy, China will mean the People's Republic of China, including Hong Kong, and Taiwan. The Fund will provide its stockholders with at least 60 days' prior notice of any change to the policy described above.

The fundamental policy, which applies to not less than 65% of the Fund's assets as set out in the Fund's prospectus dated July 10, 1992, remains in place. The fundamental policy is the same as the operating policy set out above, except that China only includes the People's Republic of China.
